Mr. Plummer further commented, "Lawyers have been financing their contingent cases the same way for decades, just as it was done when Abraham Lincoln was trying cases, before the telegram, before the car, and before electricity or the internet. Having a platform that mitigates the ability for the big guy to outspend the little guy in litigation, truly brings balance to the civil justice system in the United States. It circumvents the inherent conflict between a lawyer and his contingent client and directly benefits the State Bar IOLTA program in every state where LitCap is used. We believe that LitCap is to case cost financing what Westlaw and Lexis Nexus were to legal research."
